

SIGHTHOUND

"REGAL RUNNER"

Afghan Hound - Azawakh - Basenji (natural basal sighthounds) - Borzoi - Chart Polski - Galgo Espanol - Greyhound - Ibizan Hound - Irish Wolfhound - Italian Greyhound - Pharaoh Hound - Saluki - Scottish Deerhound - Sloughi - Whippet - mixes of any of the above breeds

You'll fall in love with your sighthound because he's:

Elegant- He's naturally inclined to appreciate the finer things in life, like warmth and comfort.

Reserved - He is generally quiet and calm, unobtrusive and stoic.

You might find a sighthound hard to live with because he's:

Sensitive - He is not cut out for harsh conditions, great endurance, invasiveness, or rough play.

A Flight Risk - He has a keen eye for prey and the instincts to hunt it down with sudden swiftness.

Self-Directed - Doting on you or following your directions (particularly, "Come") is often not his top priority.

You might find yourself seeking professional help for:

- Predatory behavior toward other animals
- Not coming when called
- His independent nature regarding your directions and requested "obedience"
- Discomfort with small children and sudden invasions or personal space
- Occasional wariness of strangers or protectiveness of territory and family

So you think you might have a SIGHTHOUND.

Now what?
